Let's Start!

Let's explore a new city! First we walk south to the harbor ...

Learning Outcome

Describe places, neighborhoods and countries in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- How do you get around a new city?
- Are you good at giving directions?
Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can read a map.
- I can talk about places and attractions in a city.
- I can ask and say where places are.

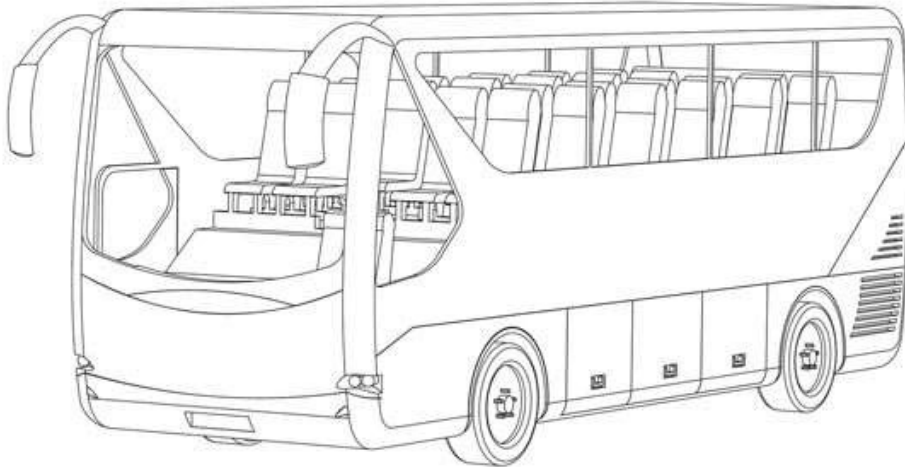

Let's Explore!

Sally and John take a trip to Boston. Do they need a map?

* When you take "a trip" you travel to another place.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

John: When do we arrive in Boston?

Sally: Soon. There are a lot of things to do at the country fair!

John: There are good museums and great restaurants by the water. Do you have the map?

Sally: Yes. There is a tour of Paul Revere's house too!

Sally: Let's see. We go west from the bus station to Liberty Street. Then, walk south toward the harbor.

John: Your map is upside down! We go east and then north!

Sally: Look, there is an art gallery on this corner. Then we go along Liberty Street.

John: Where is the art gallery?

Sally: I'm not sure.

John: You mean - we're lost?

Sally: We should ask someone ...

Let's Practice!

What can we do in Boston today?

e.g. Polar bears live in the north.
- south (noun): opposite to north e.g. Penguins live in the far south.
- east (noun): where the sun rises
e.g. New England is in the east of the USA.
- west (noun): where the sun goes down
e.g. California is in the west in the USA.
- toward (preposition): in that direction
e.g. Walk down this street toward the harbor.

Learning Points

Reading a Map

When you read a map you look at cardinal points (north, south, east and west), street names and specific buildings.

These help you find the place you want to go to. It's a good idea to use a compass or GPS when you are in a new city. Knowing where north, south, east and west are is very helpful when you ask for and listen to directions.

Examples:

- We go west from the bus station.
- Then we walk south on Liberty Street.
- The bank is north of the harbor.
- The mountains are in the east.

Prepositions and Expressions of Place

You use prepositions of place to say where you are or where you want to go. They help you say the place more clearly.

Preposition/ Expression of Place	Meaning	Examples
on the corner	where 2 streets meet	The museum is on the corner of Liberty and Main Streets. along	forward	Walk along Main Street.
at	a specific place	He's at Paul Revere's house.
by	near; beside	There are restaurants by the harbor.
toward	in the direction of	Walk toward the water.
