Let's Start!

Look at that building! It's amazing! Is that wall made of glass?

Learning Outcome

Describe places, neighborhoods and countries in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- What buildings are interesting in your city?
- Why do you like them?
- What are they made of?

Can Do Statements

- I can describe places in the city.
- I can describe buildings with colors and materials.
- I can express how far or how near objects are using this, that, these, those.

Let's Explore!

Sally and John think the buildings in Boston are beautiful!

* "Buildings" can be houses, towers or office blocks.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: I don't think this is the right way.
John: Why do you say that?
Sally: Look at that big red building.
John: Which one? That brick building?
Sally: Yeah ... that building is not near the bus station. We should go this way.
John: This way? OK.
Sally: Look over there.
John: There's the city hall. I love that huge glass wall!
Sally: That's my favorite building here in Boston.
John: It's beautiful, not like those grey towers in Cambridge!
Sally: Are we getting close to the art gallery?
John: I think so. This building is the bank.
Sally: There's that cool flower shop!
John: Where?
Sally: Over there. It's the yellow shop with the colorful wood sign.
John: There's the bus station!
Sally: Yesssss!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Colors and Materials in Buildings

Here are some colors and materials used to make buildings.

Colors	Materials
red	glass
grey	metal
blue	steel
brown	wood
yellow	cement

When you use a color and a material to talk about a building, you say the color first and the material second.

A (1)blue (2)glass wall.
color+material

A (1)grey (2)steel building.
color+material

When you have two or more adjectives from the same group, you use the word and between the adjectives.

Example: The boy has red and blue hair!

Examples:

- It's a red brick house.
- I don't like that grey steel tower!
- Look at that beautiful blue glass wall!

Learning Points

Demonstrative Adjectives This and That

A demonstrative adjective points out the noun it talks about. It goes before the noun.

that book this car

You use this for something that is near.

You use that for something that is far.

Examples:

- This street is not the right one.
- That building over there is the city hall.
